Bringing the Flame to the Table: A Story of Braai, Design, and Fine2Dine at One&Only Cape Town

In the heart of Cape Town, where Table Mountain rises behind a vibrant cityscape, One&Only Cape Town offers a dining experience rooted in authenticity, soul, and sophistication. At its culinary helm is ROOI, the resort's signature restaurant, where Chef Terrence Ford redefines South African Braai culture with fire, flavor, and finesse — served on Fine2Dine's Curvo Forest, Aurora Green, and Kolon collections.

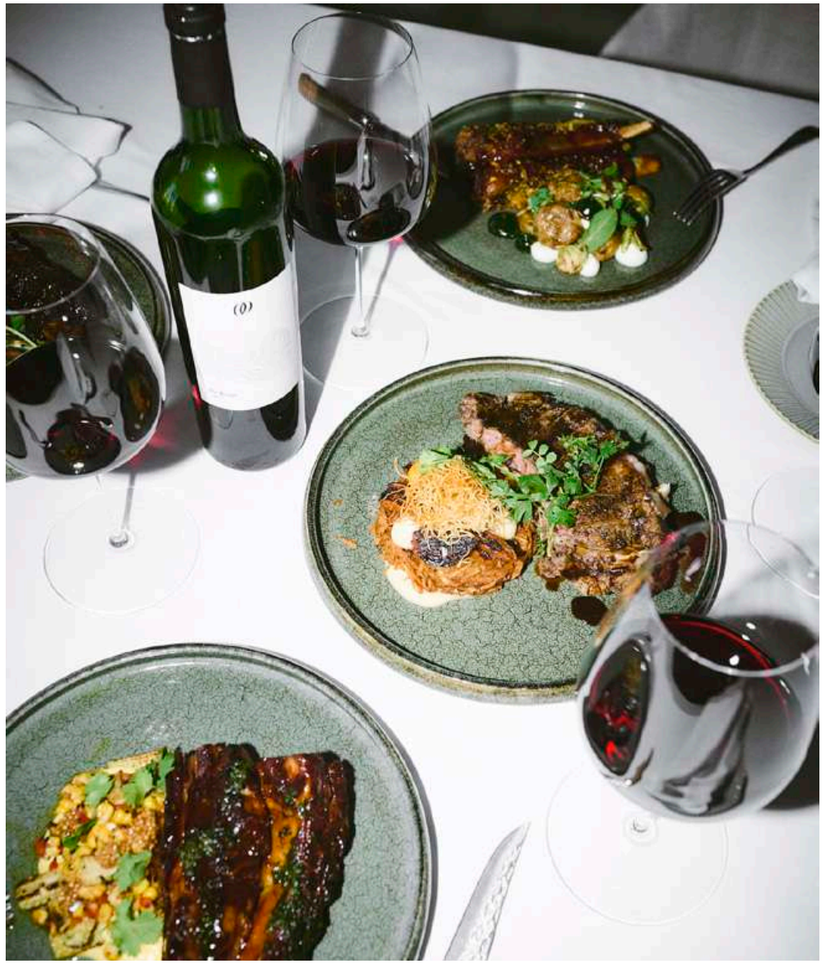

The Braai Philosophy: Fire as Storyteller

Braai — derived from the Dutch word braden, meaning "to grill" — is more than a cooking method for Chef Terrence. "It's about charred flavours, local Rooikrans wood with rich aromas, and cooking with natural elements. Braai connects us to heritage," he explains. At ROOI, this philosophy becomes tangible through a kitchen built around fire. "Cooking on open flames has allowed us to channel all the natural elements into our food," Chef Terrence says. "Combined with great quality meat, it's helped us truly embody open-flame cooking in our kitchen space." What makes Braai different? "It's live. It's raw. It's engaging. And it's homegrown for so many South Africans." In ROOI's open kitchen, guests experience not just food but a piece of living culture — served in a refined, luxury setting.

"It's live. It's raw. It's engaging."

Why Tableware Matters

For Chef Terrence, tableware is an extension of the story: "Braai is rustic and visual. So we use earthy tones and textured plates — they elevate the deep colors of medium-rare steaks and vegetables charred over flame." The Curvo Forest collection, in particular, frames these dishes with natural depth, while durability and non-porosity remain essential for hygiene and long-term service. "Functionality matters, of course. But what really counts is how the plate supports the food's narrative," he says.

A Visual Identity Shaped by Nature

For Roxanne Curtis, F&B Manager at One&Only Cape Town, aesthetics are a reflection of the setting. "We take inspiration from our surroundings — the ocean, the mountain, the city's vibrant culture. Every element, including the tableware, has to feel grounded and luxurious." The decision to work with Fine2Dine? "Quality is non-negotiable, but so is individuality. Fine2Dine gives us modern, tactile designs that are both functional and beautiful. Their collections feel curated for the experience we're creating." With menus that evolve seasonally, tableware is also refreshed regularly to match — and Fine2Dine's versatility helps maintain excitement. "It's not about change for the sake of it," Roxanne adds. "It's about staying current and thoughtful."

Looking Ahead: A Future Built on Storytelling and Sustainability

As trends shift globally, both Chef Terrence and Roxanne agree on what's coming next: storytelling, sustainability, and sensory engagement. Guests want to connect with what they're eating — to understand where it comes from and why it matters. Fine2Dine plays a role in this shift: offering durable, design-forward tableware that supports immersive dining while aligning with sustainable values.

Why Fine2Dine?

At ROOI, tableware isn't just a plate — it's a part of the story. By working with Fine2Dine, One&Only Cape Town brings heritage to life in a contemporary, elevated way. "It helps us do justice to what we put on the plate," Chef Terrence sums up. "It supports our story. That's what makes it the right choice."

Curvo

Strong round and bulky shapes

The diversity of the human body and the social movement about body positivity have been an incredible source of inspiration for the creation of the Curvo collection. Just like the movement, Fine2Dine aims to challenge the established beauty standards. Instead of fine lines and elegant slim forms, Curvo features strong round and bulky shapes in combination with earthy colors. The sturdy porcelain tableware items will add a chunky flair to your table.

Reactive Glaze

Most of our ranges are finished by hand, using a reactive glaze. Thanks to this glazing process, no two pieces are alike. Random patterns and color variations emerge, resulting in truly unique pieces that still belong to the same family, with all items in that family perfectly matching each other.

You can compare the effect of reactive glazes to snowflakes. No matter how many billions fall from the sky, no two are ever alike. Each snowflake has its own unique pattern, with an infinite number of possible shapes. The same principle applies to our tableware finished with reactive glaze. You'll never find two exact copies, but within the same collection, they all share a common aesthetic.

In this catalog, all ranges featuring a reactive glaze are marked at the bottom of its page with the following symbol: Ⓡ

"Binded by similarity, distinguished by uniqueness."
